CONFLICT MINERALS STATEMENT

12-31-2012

Certain materials used in our products, including Tin, are regulated under law. This statement addresses our policy regarding the regulations regarding Conflict Minerals.

A "Conflict Mineral" is as noted in Section 1502 of the Dodd-Frank Wall Street Reform and Consumer Protection Act passed by congress July 2010. Capital Advanced Technologies, Inc. "Capital" in an effort to support and comply with the provisions of the act undertakes ongoing efforts to ensure its suppliers comply with the regulation and supply conflict free materials. Capital requests information from its suppliers supporting compliance with the Act and indicates required compliance on purchasing documentation when applicable. In addition, Capital may survey suppliers and request further information to support its objectives in regard to the Act.

To the best of our knowledge based on information from our suppliers Capital does not use any conflict minerals in any of its standard products manufactured after 12-31-2012.

While Capital believes its products produced prior to this date are compliant as well, our supplier participation documentation is not guaranteed as industry standard reporting guidelines were only recently completed. As of the date of this notice the industry at large is still in an information gathering and compliance effort and not all suppliers in the overall global supply chain can retroactively identify all material sources easily.

Capital strives to be a socially and environmentally conscious company and as such will make efforts to comply with the regulations regarding Conflict Minerals on an continuous basis.
